

ADAC RAVENOL 24h Nürburgring from 14 to 17 May 2026:

Entries for the 2026 24h are now being accepted

- Approved supplementary regulations for the 24h Nürburgring are online
- Teams can now submit their entries for the ADAC RAVENOL 24h and ADAC 24h Nürburgring Qualifiers
- Attractive conditions for entries submitted within the pre-entry period

With the approval of the supplementary regulations by the German ASN, DMSB, the next stage on the road to the ADAC RAVENOL 24h Nürburgring 2026 has begun: the official regulations are now available on the team portal at www.24h-information.de. At the same time, the entry portal has been activated: teams can now not only register for the 24h Nürburgring from 14 to 17 May 2026, but also for the ADAC 24h Nürburgring Qualifiers from 17 to 19 April 2026.

The supplementary regulations for the big 24-hour prologue is currently still in the final approval phase at the DMSB. However, a draft containing all the important key data has already been posted on the team portal, giving participants early planning security.

The race before the race: four weeks for discounted registration

Important for all teams: registration is available at attractive conditions until the pre-registration deadline. However, anyone wishing to take advantage of this should decide quickly, as the conditions are only valid until 18 March 2026. The final registration deadline for the 24-hour race is 22 April 2026 – the Wednesday after the 24h Qualifiers weekend. The registration deadline for the ADAC 24h Nürburgring Qualifiers has been set for 12 April 2026.

Shoot-out in Top Qualifying

With the now approved regulations, the further developed mode for the top qualifying has also been published in black and white. It is based on a three-stage shoot-out: in Top Qualifying 1 and 2, the fastest cars in the top groups – for example from the SP9 and SP-X classes – will battle it out for a place in the final Top Qualifying 3, where the pole position and the best starting places will be awarded. At the same time, a separate Qualifying 3 without Top Qualifying cars will ensure an exciting battle for the remaining starting positions in front of the gigantic 24h backdrop at the Nürburgring.
